Road Trip Travel Tips

Planning a road trip this summer? While hitting the open highway can be a wonderful adventure, trying to carry on conversations during long hours in a car can be challenging when you have hearing loss. Some simple strategies may make the journey more comfortable. Let traveling companions know your communication preferences. For example, if you'd like them to face you when talking or to wait for a quiet stretch before starting a conversation. When traveling at faster speeds, close the car windows to reduce the background sounds of rushing wind and traffic noises. And be sure to look for hearing assistance signs at the sites you visit, like museums or theatres.

FEDERAL LAW PROHIBITS ANYONE BUT REGISTERED USERS WITH HEARING LOSS FROM USING INTERNET PROTOCOL (IP) CAPTIONED TELEPHONES WITH THE CAPTIONS TURNED ON. IP Captioned Telephone Service may use a live operator. The operator generates captions of what the other party to the call says. These captions are then sent to your phone. There is a cost for each minute of captions generated, paid from a federally administered fund. No cost is passed on to the CapTel user for using the service.
